First section is Goal Evaluation. Since the goals are already approved by your line manager, it's time to rate them up to your ability and understanding. The idea is to understand where you as a Team Member stand in terms of goals/KPIs set for the upcoming year. Ratings are from 0 to 5 stars (including 0.5 decimals) and you can begin with a self-evaluation followed by a manager rating. Ensure you comment on why you rate yourself at a certain level.

Second section is Competency Evaluation.

A competency is a set of demonstrable characteristics and skills that enable, and improve the efficiency of, performance of a job. Competencies are not necessarily skills, although they are similar. Skills are learned, while competencies are inherent qualities an individual possesses that translate into actions at work.

Competencies usually fall into three categories:

Behavioral Competencies – an expression of the softer skills involved in an Team Member's performance.

Technical Competencies – usually concerned with the effective use of IT systems and computers, or any hard skills necessary for a job.

Leadership Competencies – an expression of the qualities that make a good leader, turned into measurable behaviors.

Every Team Member is required to rate him/herself on the competencies, we as an organization believe in. There are 08 competencies that matter to us at One Team

Agility (10%) - It is your willingness to change, your ability to change and the nimbleness you exhibit as you adapt to change quickly—it is key to your future. Workplace agility stems from this ability to work quickly, seamlessly, and cohesively. As more and more Team Members begin to work from home or on the road, company productivity shouldn't suffer Here are 8 characteristics that will make you more agile at work: You're not afraid to change course, You're a listener, You collaborate, You're proactive, You're a communicator, You are disciplined, You are resilient, and You're a lifelong learner.

Client Centricity (20%) - Client-centric, also known as customer-centric, is a strategy and a culture of doing business that focuses on creating the best experience for the customer, and by doing so builds brand loyalty. It ensures that the customer is at the center of a business's philosophy, operations, or ideas. It is a business strategy that is based on putting your customer first and at the core of your business in order to provide a positive experience and build long-term relationships.

Critical Thinking & Problem Solving (15%) - Critical thinking is a process of objective evaluation of facts and the consideration of possible solutions to problems. It is important because it helps individuals and teams more effectively diagnose problems and identify possible solutions that aren't entirely obvious at first. The thinker improves the quality of his or her thinking by skillfully analyzing, assessing, and reconstructing the subject, content, or the problem. Critical thinking is self-directed, self-disciplined, self-monitored, and self-corrective thinking.

Efficiency (10%) - Efficiency in the workplace means when Team Members carry out the correct tasks in the right way, with the least waste of time and effort. In essence, improving workplace efficiency is about helping Team Members work smarter, not harder. They know how to organize their time and effort to complete tasks on time.

Here are the top things you can do to increase Team Member efficiency at the office - Don't be Afraid to Delegate, Match Tasks to Skills, Communicate Effectively, Keep Goals Clear & Focused, Incentivize Team Members, Cut Out the Excess, Train and Develop Team Members, and Embrace Telecommuting.

Empathy (10%) - Empathy is the ability to perceive and relate to the thoughts, emotions, or experiences of others. Those with high levels of empathy are skilled at understanding a situation from another person's perspective and reacting with compassion.

For example, you likely smile and take the trouble to remember people's names: that's empathy in action. Giving people your full attention in meetings, being curious about their lives and interests, and offering constructive feedback are all empathic behaviors, too. Practice these skills often.

Ownership (15%) - The ownership is Team Members agreeing to their roles and planning strategically to achieve the same. It is a two-way process; a Team Member will take charge of his/her work when given a proper environment and vice-versa. It gives Team Members a sense of autonomy. Instead of requiring constant handholding, Team Members will focus on what the company needs overall rather than just what's required of them. That's because they feel invested in the team's success.

Respect (Deadline, Team Confidentiality) (10%) - Deadlines help us to collaborate toward achieving a shared goal, and to keep complex, multistage projects on track. To set expectations. Deadlines make clear what we're expected to deliver and when. This means that we can take control of our work, free of confusion. Workplace confidentiality refers to any confidential information that you come across in the course of business. There are three main types – the personal information of customers, Team Member information that managers collect, and "proprietary information." Respecting both deadlines and team confidentiality is a vital for growth of an individual in an organization.

Teamwork & Collaboration (10%) - Collaboration in the workplace is when two or more people (often groups) work together through idea sharing and thinking to accomplish a common goal. It is simply teamwork taken to a higher level. Teamwork is often a physical joining of two people or a group to accomplish a task. Both teamwork and collaboration involve a group of people working together to complete a shared goal. The key difference between the collaboration and teamwork is that whilst teamwork combines the individual efforts of all team members to achieve a goal, people working collaboratively complete a project collectively.

Third section talks about Qualitative Feedback.

There are 3 qualitative questions that each Team Member needs to assess and answer in as much detail as possible. These questions comprise of self-evaluation as well as past year's evaluations, concerns and feedback to the managers, team, and the organization. The idea is to ensure the support required to make your work life easier and more productive while acknowledging past mistakes and working on them positively.

The questions are:

- 1. According to you, what are your top achievements in the last year?
- 2. Identify areas of improvement (self-evaluation)
- 3. What feedback would you want to give to your manager?
